Printed programs containing the Congregational music will be furnished and the public are cordially invited to come and sing.

Mr. P. Nanfelt, solo cornetist of the Elm City band, will assist the organist at all these services.

AT GRACE M. E.

Perhaps no organization is doing more for the salvation of men than the organization of United Christian Workers. The work of this society at home and abroad will be the subject of a discourse by Rev. H. L. Pope in the Grace M. E. church Sunday morning.

In the evening the Sunday school will hold their annual Children's day concert, entitled "The Golden Gate." There will be good singing and speaking by the school who will be assisted by the choir of the church. The pastor will give an address on "The Education Needed To-day."

THE CITY MISSIONS.

The Sunday services to-morrow at the City Mission hall, corner of Court and State streets, will be held at 9 o'clock a. m., 3 o'clock and 4 o'clock p. m., and the people's service at 7:30 p. m. The speaker to-morrow evening will be Mr. W. G. Skinner of New Haven. Seats are free to all.

DWIGHT PLACE CHURCH.

"Children's Sunday" is to be observed by this church. The pastor will speak this morning on "Children and Youth." In the evening the Sunday school will be present and participate in the services.

CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH.

Each invitation contains tickets admitting two ladies and one gentleman, and the price is $3. Those who have not yet subscribed and also desire tickets should call for them on Monday. The auction sale for choice of seats for the Prom. will be held Wednesday evening, June 12, at 8:45 p. m., in 194 Old Chapel. The price of seats is $2 each. Each choice will be limited to ten seats, and men must pay for seats and bonus at this time.

Six Planets Visible at Once.

A rare opportunity was open last night to students and teachers of astronomy and others. Early in the evening Jupiter and Mercury could be seen in the western horizon. Venus and Mars are in conjunction. Saturn and Uranus could also be seen, but only after some searching and by those who knew where to look.

DECORATION DAY TO-MORROW.

St. Aloysius T. A. and B. Society and the Veteran Firemen's League Will Decorate Graves.

Two of the local societies will to-morrow decorate the graves of their deceased members in the several cemeteries. The St. Aloysius' T. A. & B. society will meet at their rooms 781 Chapel street, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in full regalia, dark clothes, black derby hat, white bow tie and gloves, badge, cane and bouquet of flowers to decorate the graves of the deceased members of the club.

It is expected that out of a total membership of about 350, at least 325 will participate in the exercises of the day. The club will form in line on Chapel street immediately in front of the society's rooms and headed by the American Second Regiment band will proceed to St. Bernard's cemetery over the following route: Up Chapel street to Church street, to Congress avenue to the cemetery. The parade will be headed by a platoon of police made up of the members of the society and accompanied by Sergeant Thomas Dunn, and patrolmen E. J. Kelly, Owen J. Daley, Hugh McKee, J. E. Roche and John Foran.

Sunday morning the members of the society will attend the regular quarterly communion at St. John's R. C. church at 7:30 o'clock, where solemn eulogies will be celebrated for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of the society. The members of the society will meet at St. John's school hall on South street at 7 o'clock with badges for the purpose of attending this service. The graves of the few deceased members of the society in St. Lawrence cemetery will be decorated Sunday morning by a committee from the society. The New England Veteran Firemen's league will also decorate the graves of deceased Veteran Firemen to-morrow, the anniversary of the annual coronation by the surviving members of the league. All veteran firemen are requested to meet at room No. 5, Main building, at 2 o'clock, to take part in the exercises.

A committee will be at the room at 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock noon to receive such flowers friends may be pleased to send in decorating the graves of deceased and for the firemen's lot.

Lawyer Case Will Defend Griswold.

Hartford, June 7.—Lawyer William C. Case of the firm of Case, Bryant & Case, has been retained to defend Dr. M. R. Griswold, who stands charged with setting fire to the building in which he has an office at No. 368 Main street on arch 14. The case, it is understood, will be called next Tuesday before Judge Wheeler of Bridgeport. Mr. DeBerger will be associated with Mr. Case.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

C. E. Longley & Co. Buy an Entire Wholesale Stock.

C. E. Longley & Co., as usual, display rare energy and business enterprise, and will give the people of New Haven an opportunity to secure good clothing at astonishing low figures. Messrs. Longley & Co. have been in correspondence with Thompson, Willis & Newgent of Boston, Mass., and have purchased that firm's entire stock of $150,000 worth of clothing.

The firm of Thompson, Willis & Newgent have always borne an excellent reputation as makers of the best grades of clothing. Bringing to this city at auction prices such a splendid stock of goods certainly merits the patronage of people who appreciate an opportunity for saving a dollar and getting first class goods at reasonable prices. Messrs. Longley & Co. secured the whole stock named at a bargain, and as a consequence the goods are to be sold at a price barely above half the wholesale price. This opportunity for bargains ought not to be missed.

CLASS OF '85, H. H. S.

A Highly Enjoyed Reunion Last Night.

Since the alumni meeting of the Hill-house high school several of the classes have held reunions, but none have been so successful as the one which was held yesterday afternoon and evening by the class of '85 H. H. S.

After enjoying an hour's social pleasure at the parlors of the Young Men's Institute, the class adjourned to Sparks & Champion's, where dinner was served.

The following was the menu: Tomato soup, broiled blue fish, French potatoes, olives, egg omelet, chicken salad, French cream, cakes, coffee.

Informal speeches were made by several present.

In the evening a theater party was held at the Hyperion.

Among those present at the reunion were: Mrs. George W. P. Bedell, Miss Harriet K. Storer, Miss Emma L. Tyler, Miss Kate K. Tuttle, Miss Louise A. Hofacker, Miss Lillian E. Bradley, Miss Helen M. Thomas, Miss Carrie F. Finch, Miss Mary E. Blakeslee, W. Vernon Somers and William C. DeP. Dickinson.

Next Friday evening at 170 Howard avenue, the residence of Miss Finch, a meeting of the class will be held to arrange for a picnic to be given at Woodbridge Glen.

Physicians a Hundred Years Ago.

At the universities, medical students were not permitted to go out without their scholastic cloaks—a regulation that still obtains in Spain. That the number of students has enormously multiplied may be seen from the fact that the little university of Gießen, with scarcely any medical school at all, has always more students than had Halle in the days of the famous Hoffmann.

In the middle of the last century Wurzburg had at one time but three medical students, while to-day it has in the neighborhood of 500. Even then it was complained that on account of the number of students there was an educated proletariat arising, and in 1791 it was proposed, in Austria, that the rush for study should be suppressed.

Among the Continental students the revels and bad behavior of past centuries were not to any great extent corrected; fights and debauchery were very common, and all sorts of orgies and bacchanals prevailed. The professors were in large measure independent of the state, and a single individual often represented a number of branches now taught by special chairs.

When indisposed to lecture, they simply posted on the blackboard "Hodie lecturum," and this was the end of the matter. In 1777 Vienna had 147 medical teachers, and in Germany there were two to every thirty-nine students. That in the last century one man accomplished more than a great number of average teachers to-day is amply demonstrated by the lives of Boerhaave, Haller, and others. Then, too, the Latin tongue was generally employed for purposes of instruction, though surgeons for the most part lectured in the vernacular. Cullen, in 1770, was the first in Great Britain to deliver purely medical lectures in English; and as the clergy gradually retired from the ranks of the profession, Latin more and more fell into disuse. Strange to say, as the clerical influence waned, the Jews began to enter medicine, the movement beginning about 1791 in France, under the promulgation of "civil equality" ideas; previously the Hebrews had been almost universally suppressed people, and in Berlin were permitted to enter and leave the city only by one gate, and were forbidden to learn or write pure German, in consequence thereof their dialect was a Hebraic-Teutonic jargon that even to-day prevails in some portions of western Europe. Educated Jews were few in number, since attendance upon universities was ordinarily denied them, although long before they had been admitted to Salamanca, Toledo, Salerno, and Montpellier. In Austria the prohibition was not removed until 1789, and even then so bitter was the prejudice against the Semite race that the clergy protested vigorously. It was the same clerical body that in 1667 protested with the greatest vehemence against allowing Hebrew physicians to pass through the gates of Wurzburg without paying toll, declaring it was "better to die with Christ than be cured by Jews who were aided by the devil."

The physician of the last century was, at least on occasions of moment, very different from other men, and to be recognized by his dress. A cap was placed upon his head when he graduated, in recognition of the fact that physicians at an earlier period belonged to the learned or clerical profession; and in later life he wore a purplish or scarlet cloak (to distinguish him from lawyers whose professional color was yellow, and from theologians who then as now sported the sombre black).

The regulation full dress costume of the English physician of the last century demanded a well-powdered wig, silk coat, knee breeches with stockings, buckled shoes, lace ruffles, cap, and gold-headed cane, to which, in cold weather, was added a muff—to preserve his delicacy of touch.—Medical Age.
